SEALER PLANS TO PROSECUTE

Gives Merchants and Market Men until June First to Comply with Provisions of Act Compelling them to Mark Boxes.

Sealer of Weights and Measures Raffensperger has decided to give the storekeepers and truckers of Adams County until June first to comply with the law regarding the marking of measures and boxes, and after that time prosecutions will be instituted against those who persist in defying the provisions of the Act of 1915.

Much of the trouble has to do with the failure of the green grocerymen and the shippers at each market to mark plainly their boxes containing strawberries or other fruits or vegetables. Some are sold in small bugs which must also be marked. The law specifically declares that every commodity must be sold by weight, measure or numerical count and imposes a minimum fine of $25 for violations. Mr. Raffensperger has issued the warning and, after a reasonable time, which he has decided will be until June the first, he will take legal steps to enforce the provisions of the act.

People in Gettysburg, who have been accustomed to buy coal by the measure, will be interested to know that practically every such measure in town is to be condemned on account of not being legal. Coal must weigh 75 and 76 pounds to the bushel and none should be in measures that are five pounds short. To those buying coal in small quantities this is a large percentage of loss.

Some of the scales with Mr. Raffensperger's seal on them when the town stores have been adjusted by a sealer official. Others will have to be replaced entirely, imposing a heavy expense on the merchants.

A Double Game

By HARRY VAN AMBURG

"Allyboy dull this lamegina about a hotel waiting for something," said a sino to another who occupied a chair beside him.

"Well, yes, father Cards is about the only way to pass the time. And the difficulty about cards is you must be up to play 'em."

"I couldn't do that," said the other "for I don't know a soul socially in the city. I've been in Gotham about two years now today and not out this ever but not a friend received."

"I knew several men who never left a friend since I've been here," said the other. "I was thinking of getting up a little game of poker this evening for a few cents, five cent ante or something like that."

"I wish you would and let me in."

The party met, and the man who didn't know anybody was introduced by his friend to the others as Mr. Whoseick, the introducer's name being Mr. Jones. They sat down to play with a five cent ante, but keen raising it till it amounted to a dollar. Mr. Whoseick didn't object and he as high as any of the party, raising and re-raising to suit the game taking.

It was not long before Whoseick discovered that though he neither had nor won much, the money he started with was gradually passing out of his hands and was supplied by new dry dollars from his roll. He knew the fact didn't seem to surprise him, nor did the game seem to. He did not care to meet upon it. But Mr. Jones, from whom his bills came, seemed to think he had had $1,000 paid him that after the game was over and he had given him all in these new five dollar bills on the bank's counter he had never paid the money. This agitated his having to settle with it all of the money combination

Then the game was in process a bill boy rapped at the door and asked if Mr. Whoseick was in the room. Something told that he was he handed in a bouquet of violets. Mr. Whoseick opened the flowers with evident astonishment, and then discovered that he was having a sweetheart over at hand he hadn't remembered, and that was why he didn't know a woman in the place. He was in a hurry to get away and was entirely unconscious of it.

He was in a hurry to get away and was entirely unconscious of it.

"Wish you would set me in," he said to Jones. "I'll be back directly. I must examine his vest, bring bidder by the bills, and I'll return in a few minutes."

"It seems to me," remarked one of the party when the flowers boxes have a very decided perfume."

"It makes me sneeze," chimed in another.

"I'll make it stand," said a third.

"Perhaps we'd better open a window," observed the host, "and put the flowers on the mantel piece object, Mr. Whoseick."

"Certainly not."

Jones went to a window and tried to open it, but it seemed to be stuck. He went to another, which also resisted his efforts. Mr. Whoseick went up to his host on the cards, but his mind was on the flowers. He had given orders to that very room during the day, and had directed a vase put into the room of each window.

He opened every with a frightened look on his face. There were two vases in the room. He had not noticed her himself, the other by Mr. Whoseick. The latter staggered to the door and tried to open it. Finding it locked, he pounded more frightened still.

"Some one has locked us in here," said the host, turning pale.

He caught on to the lurk of a stein The perfume from the flowers was overcoming him. He returned to the window and made another effort to get it to the mash He failed and was on his way to the other window when a sick down unconscious.

Then the others of the party were also giving way to the effects of the perfume and one by one either collapsed down to the floor or beat over on the mantel piece. Mr. Whoseick, encountered the fumes by holding a handkerchief over his nose. When all except himself had succumbed he announced that he would go directly after the police or quick as possible. They arrived in a few minutes and were much surprised at the scene before them. Whoseick was then taken down in hoops on the table.

"That man," said Whoseick, point ing to Jones, "is a counterfeiter I am a Pinkerton, a detective I invited him here and the others. I fancy are his colleagues. He has been trying to drive his stuff on me for my good money. Better put the bracelets on him before he comes to himself."

When the party came to they found themselves in the hands of the police But the only one "wanted" was Mr Jones

WILL ADVERTISE TOWN WITH FILM

Response from Gettysburg Business Men Warrants Going ahead with Big Advertising Scheme Started a Month ago. For Movies.

Four thousand feet of motion picture film showing Gettysburg and its environs is now practically assured provided the business men not yet approached show the degree of response equal to those who have been canvassed during the past few days.

As stated in the Times a month ago, a plan was formulated at a meeting of railway officials and business men held at the Hotel Gettysburg to attract conventions here by exhibiting motion pictures, in charge of a competent lecturer, at various convention points throughout Pennsylvania and nearby states. Since that time J. A. Bing, who was the moving factor in the proposition, has been assisted in completing arrangements by John Slaybaugh. Both gentlemen have returned to the extent of contracting with the Superior Film Mfg. Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, to have a company here on Memorial Day that he may secure the scenes of this season and take views of the ceremonies at the cemetery.

After a thorough search among the various motion picture firms the Iowa company was selected to make the views because of their excellent reputation and the fact that they will contract to do the work at a much lower price than any other firm. A telegram was dispatched to them on Wednesday advising them that their bid was accepted and requesting them to have their man here early Saturday morning. Another reason for this quick action is the possibility that there may be a motion picture company in the City and doing special work at Columbia University. His work was recently recognized to the extent of his being made a member of the Historical Association. He is enthusiastic over the plan and has written a letter to the promoters assured them that he will be on Saturday to assist the camera man. Among the suggestions from Mr. Kieffer that will be carried out is to show everything of an ostensible advertising nature; to have the pictures portrayed in an educational feature, and while it is intended to show scenes of Gettysburg, its houses, not to show them as a cheering gum sign might be thrown upon the screen. Next to Gettysburg, the most part of the whole.

Mr. Kieffer has received from C. F. Stewart, General Passenger Agent of the Western Maryland, that the railway company will go so much with the thousand feet showing the scenes in Gettysburg which they spread to make at their own expense as soon as the film is developed. This is formula is completed. They will probably consider the same men who take the Gettysburg film. It is also early stated, the town's share of expense for the film and aggregate about $700.00. At least $300 additional will be required to pay the lecturer and advance expenses before the adventure becomes self supporting. The promoters of the project have confidence enough in the town to feel that it will be raised. The response already shown justified their proceeding without delay so that the Memorial Day exercises will be included in the production returns from the plan are not expected for the present year, but will be sufficient to have every active citizen do his share towards its success.

A letter from Colonel Lewis E. Beitler to a friend here stated that Valley, is suffering from a broken rib Valley, is suffering from a broken rib as the result of a plow handle striking him in the side. Mr. Hoffman Colonel Beitler is a friend here stated that as the result of a plow handle striking him in the side. Mr. Hoffman is also confined to his home with the grippe.

TROLLEY TALK

Link Likely to Be Built Between Thurmont and Emmitsburg.

The construction of a link of the electric railroad from Thurmont to Emmitsburg, which will be considered by the boards of directors of the Frederick and Frederick Railway Company, will fill a vital want of the citizens of Emmitsburg. The residents are anxious to have an electric line connecting Frederick with Emmitsburg, and it is reported now that they are willing to co-operate with the railroad officials not only in work but financially.

The bulk of buying of the residents of Emmitsburg is done in Baltimore to an added expense The residents claim that not only is it an expensive proposition but it is very inconvenient for them to go to Baltimore to make their purchases, and would be a benefit assisted, as far as railroad connections are concerned.

ALLEMAN—COX

L. M. Alleman, formerly of Gettysburg, and for many years postmaster in Littlestown, was married at his home in that town on Tuesday at 12 noon at two o'clock to Miss Bessie M. Cox, of Littlestown. They left for Cox, of Hampstead, Maryland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. J. Hill and only relatives were present. After a trip to New York and other points in the East, Mr. Alleman will live for some years head of the L. Alleman Grain Company, with offices in this place. He is well known throughout the county on account of his business relations and by reason of his long service in church and Sunday School activities.

DANGEROUS FUN

Three Boys Take Short Ride. One Delivered by Brakeman.

Ernest McKinney, Charles Snyder and Frederick Dobson boarded the freight train which left Gettysburg Monday to ride to the post office about two hundred yards distant but soon discovered a moment after the train started by Brakeman Warren. Snyder was knocked down by the car hook and was taken into the coach and threatened with a severe clipped out of the door, crawled down to the next truck and was later discovered there by Warren who took him on to Biglerville where he was let off the train.

BECKER—YOHE

George W. Becker, of near Gettysburg, and Miss Elmira Yohe, of York County, were married Saturday evening by Rev. Irvin H. Lau, at St. Luke's Lutheran parsonage, Littlestown.

The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Becker, of New Guinea and bride a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Yohe.

They will live in Hanover.

WON AGAIN

Gettysburg Scores Its Third Straight Victory over Mt. St. Mary's.

The Gettysburg College base ball team has won its third game in succession from Mt. St. Mary's at Emmitsburg this season when they took the measure of the latter team Tuesday afternoon by the score of 10 to 3. Shemeta pitched for Gettysburg, struck out thirteen and allowed only five hits. Gettysburg scored out of the game in the seventh for a remark by Shemeta to the umpire after he had been struck out.

GIRL KILLED IN DRUNKEN BRAWL

Evidently murdered during a drunken melee, Hazel Myers, of near York Springs, was found dead in the cellar of an old home about a half mile from Carlisle early Saturday morning. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parker A. Myers, of Latimore township, was about twenty-one years old and had run away from home ten months ago.

When found she had evidently been dead for twenty four hours or more and decomposition was apparent. The house in which the body was discovered has been tenantless for over a year but was recently purchased by a foreigner for storing machinery. He visited the place on Friday afternoon and noticed that the old outside cellar door had been opened. He was then fixing it when he noticed a body lying at the foot of the steps.

Thinking that it was a drunken tramp he gave the form a shove with his foot only to discover that it was a young girl. The proper authorities were notified and it was learned that the girl had left her home Thursday evening with another girl named Grace Green. The body of the girl was then removed to the undertaking establishment of Hoffman & Hoffman and the next news of them was when the body of Miss Myers was found.

Coroner Hoffman, after an inquest, in which several newspaper men, visited Lo-gan House, Carlisle, and found there some articles of woman's apparel with great blots of blood on them, decided that the girl had been killed by being struck on the head with a blunt instrument. The girl's skull was fractured in three places. The murderer carried the girl to the old house and dragged her down the cellar steps where it was found. It is believed that the girl was killed in the parlor of the house and then carried to the cellar. Blood stains in the hallway leading to the cellar door and on the steps also confirm the belief that the girl was killed in the house.

On Sunday Dr. J. C. Davis, of Carlisle, assisted by Coroner Dearborn and Undertaker Wedeman, held a post mortem examination, making special search for poison. Several of the girl's organs were removed for purposes of examination.

Following the coroner's jury in the case brought in their verdict which declared that Hazel Myers came to her death by a blow or blows on the right side of her head, at the hands of some person or persons unknown to the jury."

The name of the person or persons who accompanied her to Locust Grove on the fatal trip have not been disclosed and may be the means of solving the hazing. It is the opinion that the Carlisle authorities are keeping the involved persons under cover until sufficient evidence is on hand to warrant an arrest.

At the coroner's inquest Dr. Davis, who had performed the autopsy, declared that there was no sign on the exterior marks of any kind, the having been received but that when the scalp was removed, there was a depression in the skull, about two inches in size. It was the blow which caused the death, and ultimately the girl's death, according to the testimony of the physician.

The Myers family is well, though not specially forwardly, known in the county. Mr. Myers has been for years a deputation in Adams County Court last year on a charge of arrest by Constable John Lash, a former resident of Gettysburg, struck and thirteen and allowed only five hits. Gettysburg scored out of the game in the seventh for a remark by Shemeta to the umpire after he had been struck out.

ACCIDENT

Plow Handle Breaks Rib for Buchanan Valley Farmer.

Edward McSherry, of Buchanan Valley, is suffering from a broken rib as the result of a plow handle striking him in the side. Mr. Hoffman is also confined to his home with the grippe.

While this had not been definitely decided when Colonel Beitler wrote, if their visit does mature, it will add materially to the general publicity work without expense to local people.

SUSTAIN CHARGE BUT KEEP EMMONS

Town Council Finds First Charge on which Chief Emmons was Suspended to have been Correct. Not Sufficient Cause for Removal.

Chief of Police Emmons is on the job again. John H. Raymond is still burgess of Gettysburg. The town council has maintained its dignity. One hundred or more citizens report a warm though pleasant evening in the parlor of City Hall. This, in brief, is the result of what have been two Tuesday night of the charges preferred by Burgess Raymond against Officer Emmons.

After the matter had been thoroughly thrashed out, the big crowd of citizens—influential and otherwise—who had gathered to witness what they believed would be an entertainment worth while, were asked to leave the room and while in the presence of only the parties actually concerned, the council members were called upon to bury the hatchet, work in harmony, and strive for the good of the people of the historic and city borough of Gettysburg.

Until 11 o'clock the assortment anticipated marked the hearing by the council. President Butt was judge for the evening and all the other councilmen were his associates. Mr. Trostle was also a always present. Burgess Raymond and 409 postcards there announcing his coming, he says, and when he arrived he found there were more than a dozen of them had been delivered.

FOR FASTER SERVICE

Will See who is to Pay for Delivery of Mail.

Under the direction of Postmaster Daniel Clutz a conference will be held in Gettysburg on Wednesday to find the distance from Warren Square to the Railroad Station to the new federal building. The railroad must deliver the mail if the office is to furnish proper mail delivery facilities. Otherwise the government must provide its own vehicles. Postmaster Clutz is working to secure faster service between the railroad station and the post office than has been possible under past conditions when the mail proved pushed delivery.

SHERMAN SIGNED

Will Go to Pittsfield, Mass., at Close of College Season.

The services of Paul Sherman who has been pitching for Gettysburg College this season, have been in demand by managers of State League teams.

Sherman, after considering several offers, put his signature to the contract of the Pittsfield, Mass., club, of the Eastern Association, to which place he will go at the close of the college season.

George Herbert, of the York Tri-State team, made several trials with head Sherman, but the Independents offered more and sufficient to satisfy the young twirler, so he will go "down East."

Sherman, pitching for the college team, has won all his games, and shut out the York Tri-Staters in the opening game of the season, at York, and their performance, for a record, impressed Herbert.

PINCHOT POSTCARDS

York County Postmaster Accused of Delivering Them.

Gifford Pinchot, Washington party candidate for United States Senator from Pennsylvania, who visited Gettysburg on Tuesday, left writing he roll on Postmaster General Burleson and Postmaster Daniel Clutz of this city because of the delivery of 409 postcards to voters by the postmaster.

Mr. Pinchot was counting on making a hit with his local option plank in the honor of Mr. Anti-Cappering borough, where an attack at the same has already been made. The receipt of 409 postcards there announcing his coming, he says, and when he arrived he found there were more than a dozen of them had been delivered.

FOR ANOTHER SUNDAY TRAIN

Reading Plans to Give Gettysburg Two Trains Each Way on Sunday. Western Maryland Lays Off Local Yard Crew. Delay Freight.

When the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad puts into effect its summer schedule on Sunday, May 31, it is expected that Gettysburg will be given two Sunday trains each way on that line. The present train arriving at 10:55 a. m. and leaving at 4:30 p. m. will remain as at present and another train, leaving Gettysburg at 7:15 a. m. and returning at 6:35 p. m., will be afforded.

This additional service is provided for under the preliminary proposed schedule which have been distributed among some of the agents and, unless something unforseen develops, it will be possible for local people to go to Harrisburg or intermediate stations, to spend the day, without interfering with their business. It will be a great convenience for those who wish to spend Sunday at country towns or in various parts of the county.

No other changes to the schedule are contemplated at present and aside from the additional Sunday train, it will likely remain as at present.

The effect of the retrenchment policy of the Western Maryland has at last been felt here. On Friday night an order was received at the Gettysburg offices of the road discontinuing the shifting crew in the local yards, throwing the entire crew, for the present, out of employment and hampering seriously the freight work in Gettysburg. The seniority rules of the company will prevail and none of the men will likely be offered positions elsewhere after the necessary time for adjustment.

The removal of this crew will, it is feared, tie up greatly the movement of freight here. When it is known that during the past month this shifting crew handled eighty cars from the Reading, for local business houses and manufacturing plants, and that all such traffic will now have to be taken care of by the crews of regular trains, it can be seen just how much delay will result from this one source.

In addition, the crews of the freights will have to make up their own trains, instead of having the assistance of the shifting crew. These train crews have their hands full at present and, it is believed, the withdrawal of the local men will mean a serious delay in the transportation of local freight through Gettysburg.

W. M. PROSPECTS

May Link with New York Central and Missouri Pacific.

Recent reports are to the effect that the Rockefeller interests were trying to obtain control of the Missouri Pacific railway with the plan of linking the Western Maryland railway and the New York Central up with it to form a transcontinental line from Baltimore to San Francisco. It is said in New York city that George J. Gould had recently offered to give up any voice in the management of the Missouri Pacific.

In many quarters it has been said that Carl R. Gray, president of the Western Maryland railway, was backing Baltimore and placed at the head of the road as a part of the plan to link the Western Maryland with other Rockefeller interests and make him president of a larger system of which the Western Maryland would be a part. Mr. Gray has been unwilling to discuss such reports.

J. Elmer Musselman has gone to Erie to attend the conclave of Knights Templar.

SYRIAN CROOKS CAUGHT AT LAST

Men who Fleeced Gettysburg and New Oxford People Arrested in Far Away St Louis. Last of Three Pairs to be Deported.

The two Syrian imposters who managed to elude arrest in this county several months ago, are under arrest in St. Louis, Mo., and will be deported on the ground that they worked a confidence game. Chief of Police Wilson, Senator Stone, of Missouri, and Secretary of War Garrison.

The men were arrested in St. Louis after authorities had been notified from here in Syria. They showed letters of recommendation from the president and others. Investigation, it is stated, revealed that letters the men declared were written by church officials in Syria, were bogus, that the orphanage was supported by taxation and that no one had been authorized to solicit funds in America for it.

The men, it is believed, traveling in pairs and each pair using the same names—George Holland and George George—traveled about America last winter, and four of them came into this county. Two of them were arrested in York and Chief of Police Binder had them until an immigration officer came and took them away for deportation. Two had been arrested in Pittsburgh about the same time.

A day or two later it was learned that the men were operating in Jefferson, York county, and at Gettysburg and New Oxford. Many of the local police could get the weed out they left this section. They no doubt have been arrested in St. Louis.

Lincoln's Eloquent Gettysburg Speech

Good form

Introduce People.

From a spirit of idle curiosity there has arisen in this, perhaps unnecessarily, intricate without enough where they are not wanted. To show such is a fashion that manner that they are intruding which is considered a breach of polite- ness, no one often they are ordered with as much politeness as possible.

As an example, in public eating places, if a party of more than two or three as retired as possible, are entirely unnecessary. And in the case of a party may be introduced to be as private as possible, and not to attract the attention of strangers. Those who enter and even the party to reach other tables should be as unobtrusive as possible, and so conducted as not to disturb the attention of other guests. Where the party is large enough to have a room to itself, it is better that the waiter should be instructed entirely correct in departure, neither call attention to the fact that they look for the waiter, or any interest whatsoever in the proceedings of those who have gone their way. In this matter the waiter often is to blame for not showing sufficient tact in the matter of attention.

But in a larger sense we cannot dogmatize, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Gentleness at Home.

Use your gentlest voice at home. Watch it day by day as a pearl of great price, for it will be worth more to you in days to come than the best pearl that ever lay in a shell robe in a boy, like a kirk's song, is to the heart at home. It is a light that shines as well as shines. Train it to await tones low and soft, and keep in tune through life.—Silbu Burritt.

World's Darkest Moment.

The darkest moment is said to be just before the dawn. This is now discovered not to be so. The darkest moment, generally speaking, is just as the noonday sun shines. Then it is that living things on the earth are blinded by the dazzle of the sun and fail to recognize the light that never fails out to space.

The Reason.

"I just can't seem to keep a dining room girl!" "I have often wondered why you never had any help. You never have any such trouble." "I know, but my husband just won't flirt with them."

BUCHANAN VALLEY

Buchanan Valley—On Sunday last at 9:30 p. m. St. Ignatius church held the annual May Procession. There has been a full attendance of the congregation, the day being fine for the occasion.

The procession was hosted by the Sunday School children and Beadle of the Blessed Virgin and their guide, the pastor, Rev. Father Howard. James O. Mickley, John Dubbs, Master Bernard Kimple was crossbearer, who led the procession followed first by the small boys of the Sunday School, then the banner bearer, Eugene Deardorff, with the banners, Richard Cole and Eugene Kimple, then came the young men of the Sodality.

The little girls followed them. The banner bearer was Miss Gertrude Kimple, with two ribbon bearers Pauline Oyler and Jeannie Kimple, dressed in white with veils and wreaths. Then followed the queen, Miss Myrtle Kane, with her two maids of honor, Susan McKenrick and Alice Kane, also dressed in white with veils. The young ladies of the Sodality and the Children followed, the choir singing the Litany of the Blessed Virgin, as the procession moved through the church yard and around the building into the church.

After the singing of the hymn "Bring Flowers that are Fairest" the queen ascended to the altar and made a recitation of a hymn she crowned the statue of the Blessed Virgin with a beautiful crown of white flowers composed of roses and carnations.

The Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given after a sermon, appropriate to the honor of the Queen of the Blessed Virgin, and the honor paid to her by the faithful, which ended the beautiful afternoon's service and their parents. A very appreciative audience was present from the towns surrounding the church.

Right Spirit.

First Mother—"Well, Tommy, what are you going to do for me when you grow up?" Tommy—"If I can afford it I'm going to send you to some high-toned establishment where you will get a fine education."

Financial Pressure.

"Pupa, if you speak me I'll never give you no money and you'll be moneyless again."—Pinguala Dinkelspiel.

STORM'S DAMAGE ON BATTLEFIELD

Many Large Trees Blown over in Fury of Wednesday Afternoon's Storm. Devil's Den Avenues Suffer. Force Clearing up Debris.

Cutting a wide swath over some of the prettiest portions of the battlefield, the electrical, wind and hail storm which visited this section on Wednesday did damage which will require many days to clear away. The storm morning the men at work in the National Park were assigned to clean up all the debris possible in preparation for Memorial Day crowds.

On Avenue and Sykes avenues, in the rear of Devil's Den, eleven fine big trees were leveled to the earth. Ayres avenue being completely blocked to all travel. Nine massive trees on Culp's Hill fell before the fury of the storm and other trees were down in Woodruff Woods, Spangler's Woods on Round Top and in Pitzer's Woods.

In addition, hundreds of limbs, large and small, were torn off and many trees were seriously damaged by being more or less denuded. The portions of the field on which the storm was at its worst looked as though a veritable cyclone has vented its fury there and the destructive force of the wind was everywhere apparent. Little if, any, damage was done by lightning.

The larger trees and limbs will all be cut up into the proper lengths and length and disposed of in the customary manner. Smaller branches will all be hauled away. Work for some days confronts the repair force of men but it is expected that all may be gotten into fairly presentable shape for the crowds which are soon expected on Saturday.

Some damage from the storm was reported in the county. At Orrtanna the wind blew town two of the brick walls of the store of Harry Charles Spence. The walls had been erected as a part of the store. The roof also was thrown into the cellar and the front windows blown out.

Gettysburg had more hail than any other part of the county, and reports from the Times say that practically no damage resulted from that section. Some of the hail stones there were scarcely out by the size, bits of hail that fell during the storm.

The storm was severe over the entire county, and almost all the towns and boroughs reported brilliant lightning and heavy thunder. No buildings were destroyed by fire, but number of telephone lines were temporarily put out of commission. Some trees were struck and the rainfall was heavy almost everywhere.

Lightning struck the chimney at the home of John Koontz in York Springs, shattering it to the roof in front of the house. It was put out, however, before any serious damage was done.

GET CONTINUANCE IN HOTEL CASE

York Springs Hotel Matter is Held over fon Ten Days. Intimated that Owner will not Press for License Transfer.

At a session of Court Wednesday the case of the license at the Central Hotel, York Springs, was continued to June 3 on account of the illness of one of the attorneys. It was intimated that C. T. Leroy, the present proprietor, would not contest the case when it finally comes up for a hearing.

The continuance of the hotel and motel required to build a big house target practice on Wednesday afternoon seem conveniently at furnishing time it was the first time in the history of the college that the coat is greater than the tuition. Besides the main and individual boy houses, the difference varying according to the size of the room and size of the boxes.

Since then a Mr. Snavely has been conducting the hotel. A remonstrance has been filed by twenty six residents of York Springs and Conewago township, who claim the hotel is not necessary to successful handling of the business and that there are now existing purposes in the early spring evening when the hotel is closed. It is somewhere within the proper limitations of the law to grant a transfer when the public is especially true of the small individual boy. The hotel is said to be in a run down condition and that the building is not worth the money it would cost to put it in proper condition.

The hearing was continued for ten days to allow the officials of the hotel to make the necessary repairs and to allow the transfer of the license to be made. The intimation was given out that the hotel will not be transferred.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Forty seven graduates of the Gettysburg grammar schools received their diplomas at the fifth annual commencement exercises in the Methodist Sunday School building this afternoon. A large number of friends attended the exercises.

The entertainment portion of the program included a number of recitations and, as a special feature, the Gettysburg grammar school gave a tableaux. INDIVIDUAL HOG HOUSE.

Useful Adjunct to the Farm in Warm or Cold Weather.

Suitable hog houses are very necessary to successful handling of hogs. Every farmer should have a farrowing pasture in the early spring even in the most pleasant weather. In connection with the proper handling of hogs is especially true of the small individual boy. The hotel is said to be in a run down condition and that the building is not worth the money it would cost to put it in proper condition.

The hearing was continued for ten days to allow the officials of the hotel to make the necessary repairs and to allow the transfer of the license to be made. The intimation was given out that the hotel will not be transferred.

SOME SIDE LIGHTS ON MEDIATION PLAN IN OUR ROW WITH MEXICO

Conferees Who Represent This Country—Their Limited Powers.

Expert Opinions of Tender of "Good Offices" Are Conflicting.

WITH a suspension of hostilities between the United States and Mexico worthwhile it touches the centered upon the efforts to settle the issue between the two countries by means of mediation at conferences in Niagara Falls, Ont. Those conferences were called by the A. B. C. mediators—Mr. Rumón S. Naon, minister of Argentine; Dr. Eduardo Suárez, minister of Brazil, and Eduardo Suarez Mujica, minister of Chile.

The important work of the Niagara Falls conference is in the hands of these men, two representatives of the United States and three representatives of the Huerta government.

Joseph Rucker Lamar, associate justice of the federal supreme court, one of the American conferees, was a descendant of President William H. Harrison, who, when he president, was known as "Tom." He is fifty-six years old and was born at Burkeville, Va. Admitted to the bar in 1897, he practiced law in Augusta until 1903. He has been a member of the Georgia legislature and a justice of the state supreme court. He resumed his duties

Mr. Lamar is declared by those who know him best to be a man of sterling integrity, independence of mind and tireless industry, a great reader, a man of books and, although thoroughly absorbed in his profession, a man who has taken a lively interest in all questions affecting the social welfare of the people, political and religious.

His address on religious shows a striking expression, of which the following are examples:

"The great physical laws of the universe are unknown to every one and cannot be improved by the feeble voice of man even though he may be specially gifted as the scientist of an age.

"The right to be at large without right to vet would be but to live a prison of constant bounds. The liberty which is guaranteed by the constitution means not more than freedom from restriction."

The pleasing epithets and kind words are not sufficient to make out a case of fraud where relief is asked because of its existence.

Lehman a Farm Boy.

Frederick William Lehman, the 6th of American ancestry, has had a distinguished career in public life. Probably his most important post was that of solicitor general of the United States in the Taft administration. He is still a young man and was born in Pennsylvania, but the last in 1859, he supervised law in Nebraska City, Neb., later moved to Omaha and in 1900 took up his profession in St. Louis.

He is a fervent president of the American Bar association, was chairman of the committee on congressional districts and of the Louisiana purchase exposition and chairman of the board of directors of St. Louis.

Mr. Lehman began life in this room as a farm boy in Hancock county, Illinois, and studied law by day, whereby he was a shepherd. The late J. Rose Long Morton, secretary of agriculture between Harrison and Roosevelt, and encouraged him to turn from his pastoral pursuits.

After awhile the boy decided to go to college and entered Nebraska State college, Lincoln, where he was graduated in 1883, studying up law in Nebraska City he later went to Des Moines, and it was a attorney for the Wabash railroad that he first went to St. Louis. That was in 1893.

H. Percival Dodge, ex-minister to Panama, is secretary to the American delegation at the mediation conference Mr. Dodge is a Harvard man, forty-four years old, born in Boston and is a graduate of the Harvard Law school He was third secretary of the American embassy at Berlin in 1899 and advanced rapidly to second and first secretary of legation. He was transferred to the embassy at Tokyo in 1902 and received his first appointment as a minister in 1907 going to Honduras and Salvador, then to Costa Rica, where he did diplomatic service on a first date has been in Central America, with the exception of a year as minister to Honduras.

When the new Latin-American department was created by President Wilson Mr. Dodge became its first chief and was appointed minister to Panama.

Huerta's Delegates.

The following account skin on the Huerta delegation to the peace conference are given out by the state department:

"Emilio Rabasa is the author of the best treatise on international law and Huerta's choice for diplomatic representative to Washington had been received by his own countrymen as a man of unquestioned ability and learning.

"Agustin Rodriguez is director of the national law in the city of Mexico and the oldest practicing attorney in the republic.

"Luis Elguero is a senator, capitalist, politician, and lawyer, also intervenor appointed by the Madero government, and a national and cultured man of Mexico and member of the board of directors of the national railways of the country.

"Rafael Elguero, son of Luis Elguero, is secretary of the delegation. After graduating from Harvard university he was employed in the Mexican foreign office, formerly a chief of bureau of that department, and Rafael Capetillo, also of foreign office."

Powers of the Envoys.

Whether mediation will succeed or fail depends entirely upon the willingness of the American difficulties have been settled.

There is little doubt that one of the objects sought by the mediators is the means of a provisional constitution, representative of the Mexican people, to carry forward Mexico's governmental affairs to a time when society may until an election can be held. Tentative suggestions along this line have developed strong opposition from the Carranza constitutionalists.

Emilio Rabasa, Augustin Rodriguez and Luis Elguero, the peace commissioners appointed by President Huerta to confer with the mediating powers, nominally at least, to sign any agreement reached, are said by Washington senators to be a resolution approving President Huerta's course in dissolving the congress that overthrew Madero. The commissioners conferred "full power to negotiate and sign any treaty, convention and sign any agreement or protocol."

On the other hand, it has been maintained that the mediators are authorized in the way that the American delegates to the Hague conference of 1907 were. The A. B. C. envoys would not be effective if they could not propose terms of agreement in relation to Mexico. Any such proposal, however, from the mediators would be "of referendum" that is, they could not bind their governments, but some department before giving up would be necessary.

Final Decision With Wilson.

By this means President Wilson and his cabinet would have the final say. Every proposition that is brought forward would be referred to them, and the agreement in regard to it. Thus, for example, the Huerta commissioners would not be permitted to accept a proposition that the United States withdraw from Vera Cruz unless they could refer it to Huerta. If the Huerta government refuses specific articles of the mediators' plan, or any proposal had been obtained from Secretary Bryan, the latter will serve as President Wilson's medium of communication with the members of the American delegation.

The American delegates. It was explained, will have no authority to make any proposals for a settlement of the differences between the United States and the Huerta government. Their functions will be confined to distributing information to the negotiators and to expressing their views on suggestions that may be brought forward. Only if the negotiators, it was said, would be empowered to make proposals looking to an settlement of these differences.

Wilson's Peace Plan.

The real importance of the situations produced by the agreement of the United States and Mexico to accept good offices. It is understood, by high influences, expected to be exercised by the representatives of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, disclosed in any detail. It is said to be the plan of President Wilson to have the "constitutionalist forces will soon be in control of the entire republic and that will set up a government in Mexico City.

According to the late among these who seem to be most conversant with what is in contemplation, the United States government will submit to the conferees in General Carranza for the purpose of bringing about the peace and reunification of complete law and order throughout the republic of Mexico.

These services, it is said, probably will take the form of the appointment of a constabulary to be composed principally of officers of fidelity and ability who will maintain their organization until the work of pacification has been completed.

It is remembered that such a proposal may not involve a combat recognition of the Carranza government by the authorities, and the Washington administration, therefore, is not embarrassed in asking the carranza to use their influence toward persuading General Carranza Conflicting Views.

Some differences of opinion exists among international authorities as to the interpretation of the phrase "good offices" and "mediation" and the difference between the two. Publicists generally, however, agree that the latter somewhat elastic, should be confined to the suggestion of a plan by a third power, while the former, which is the broader, corresponds to the French term viz. "bons offices," is limited only by the tact or arbitral intermediation as an impartial friend. Both terms are used almost indiscriminately, but requires the nearest approach to the original meaning of the terms refused by them.

LIFE SAVED FOR HIGHFIELD BOY

Eighteen Year Old Russian Boy almost Weeps for Joy when Told that he will not have to Pay for Murder with his Life.

Demetre Pnujeck, the 18-year-old Russian boy, was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in Circuit Court at Hagerstown on Saturday afternoon on the charge of stabbing Francis Lachinsky, a fellow workman at Highfield on March 24. When Pnujeck found that he had not been convicted of murder in the first degree he almost wept for joy.

The case was given to the jury at noon Saturday and at 1 o'clock the verdict was announced. The case had been on trial since Friday morning.

State's Attorney Wolfinger presented the side of the state in an effort to prove that the man was guilty of murder in the first degree, carefully going over the testimony and emphasizing the points in his favor.

On the other hand the attorneys for the defense, McCauley & Hamilton, made a masterful presentation and by their client's life.

Before the case to the jury, Judge Keedy explained that under the indictment four verdicts could be rendered—murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree, manslaughter and not guilty.

The penalty in Maryland for murder in the first degree is death or life imprisonment; for murder in the second degree, imprisonment in the State's Prison; for manslaughter, not more than 18 years or less than five years. The penalty for murder in the second degree even as low as a fine of one cent, or 20 years in the penitentiary.

Pnujeck testified that he was employed with a gang of railroad construction at Highfield and that on the Saturday prior to the stabbing of Lachinsky a quarrel arose over a bottle of whiskey had been procured by other workmen in the construction camp. On May 24, about 7 p. m. he was called to the camp car by Lachinsky and with several others began drinking the liquor. He stated that he had all of his money and was 10 cents ahead of Lachinsky at the end of the game. This money Lachinsky demanded and not having it he offered his cap as security until the following day.

Pnujeck testified that Lachinsky then grabbed him and aided by two others threw him to the floor. Lachinsky then grabbed a bread knife lying on a table nearby and struck at him, but missing him in some way the knife slipped and he stabbed himself. Lachinsky then left the car, locking the door and stabbed myself". He died several days later. The defendant testified that Pnujeck declared that he had no feeling against Lachinsky and had only struck at him in self defense. He said all the men in the car were drinking. On cross examination, Pnujeck testified that he had only been in this country about one year and that he could not read nor write. He recited the events leading up to the stabbing of Lachinsky and said after a second time was not broken down. He stated that Lachinsky was always about the camp in his car and spent the night and the most of the time with Pnujeck and Baltimore he was later arrested.

Following the testimony of Pnujeck, several witnesses were put on the stand. The testimony in rebuttal was very damaging to the defendant and many of his statements on the stand were refuted by them.

SERMON TO HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Gettysburg High School was preached in the Lutheran church Sunday evening by Dr. A. G. Wagner, the pastor. The School Board and High School faculty attended with the Seniors. Dr. Wagner's text was "I am a debtor" Rev. ayres . . . . . and ye are Christ's; and Christ's is God's." 1 Cor. 3:21 and 23. He said in part:

You have reached an important milestone in your life's journey. You must to carefully take your bearings and ascertain the true and worthy story of stock". You ought to know what you are, what you have and then determine what you will do.

Let us begin with the inventory. What is the first item? "Human number one—a physical body." Value unestimated. Strong, healthy and wonderfully made, capable of vast development and great enjoyment—a marvelous piece of mechanism from the hand of the Creator. Purpose? A temple for the dwelling of the Spirit of God.

Item number two—a mind—value beyond computation". A mind holding a passport to the realm of the unseen and a title in fee simple to all treasured truth. A mind that can go back to the first page of the book of Creator filling the realms of space, the geological ages and earth's history here and there as a boy tosses, his ball, fastening them to the strong cables of cause and effect. Purpose? To fit him in the war with a strong.

Item number three—a soul—made in the image of God—value?" Call it priceless. Purpose? God only knows. He says: "It is worth more than the whole world and the owner of the world would not exchange it for the world". A soul so dear to God that he left upon earth a representative with him and is preparing "the house of many mansions" for his eternal abode.

"Item number four—a natural conscience, having every faculty and need of the body and very many conditions and possibilities.

"Item number five—the commercial and industrial life, with its opportunities for personal gain but ministering unto your necessities and comforts. Purpose? Service to humanity. Railroad property costing billions to be operated, not for the dividends serving your purpose as completely as though you owned it all.

"Item number six—the daily press", giving for one penny, the world's doings of yesterday.

"Item number seven—the gathered wisdom of the ages in the city of books and the oldest practicing attorney in the republic.

"Item number eight—the church, the means of salvation, and the ministry of the gospel, with all its possibilities and duty.

"Item number nine—the memorial of the past, the heroic deeds of our fathers, the sacrifices, the battles, the victories, the defeats, the glories of the past, the sacred soil on which we stand, the graves, and the address was made by the Rev. C. Ellis Nelson, D. D., pastor of the Lutheran memorial festival was held in the evening.

VETERANS HONOR DEAD COMRADES

Corporal Skelly Post of Gettysburg Meets to Pay Homage to Memory of Six Comrades who Died during the Past Year.

Before six draped and empty chairs, mute reminders of the membership of Corporal Skelly Post, of Gettysburg, who have died during the past year, the Civil War veterans of this place met to pay their tribute of love to departed comrades Saturday. The service was held in the Post Room. Impressive and touching was the ceremony, as one after another, the names and records were read of those comrades who have crossed the last roll call.

Charles G. Miller, sergeant major of the post, read first the record of Dr. Charles E. Goldsborough who died at Hunterstown on October 12, 1913. Three rolls were beaten on a muffled drum as the name was called. Dr. Goldsborough. William Lady's name was next read. Mr. Lady died on November 13 last. Again the muffled drum rolled three times as the story of his record was told. In the same way the solemn beating of the drum accompanied the reading of John Smith on January first of this year, of George W. Ford on December 17 last, of J. Smary Bair on March 4, and of Calvin Hamilton on March 10. The latter was the last time of the quarterly meeting when the roll was called. He says: "It is worth more than the whole world and the owner of the world would not exchange it for the world". A soul so dear to God that he left upon earth a representative with him and is preparing "the house of many mansions" for his eternal abode.

LET MILLIONS SWINDLE AWAY

Four or Five Millions of Dollars Squandered by General Sickles in Speculation. Names Three Grand children as his Heirs.

The late Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, whose will was read last week at the Sickles residence in Washington, left out of his heirs his three grandchildren—Daniel E. Sickles, 16-year-old son of Stanton Sickles, who lives with his mother, Mrs. Catherine Crackenthorpe, 13 years old, and Mrs. Blanche Crackenthorpe, 11 years old, children of Mrs. Ida Sickles Crackenthorpe, whose husband is connected with the British diplomatic service.

A legacy of $5,000 was left to General Horatio C. King and similar legacies to some of General Sickles' servants.

The only property owned by General Sickles at his death, was his residence at 23 Fifth avenue. The Bowery Savings Bank holds a mortgage of $119,200 on this and the widow of the General holds a second mortgage on it for $40,000.

In 1912 a suit for $27,000 was threatened against General Sickles to compel him to make good a shortage in the treasury of the New York Commission of which he was the head.

In dividing the estate among his grandchildren General Sickles left out his son. Mrs. Sickles Crackenthorpe, who is now residing in Monte Carlo, is reported in 1912 between General Sickles and his family over the provisions of Mrs. Sickles' will.

Mrs. Sickles baulked Stanton Sickles said that his father's estate would last in Wall street more than $4,000,000.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL GETS GOLD MEDAL

St. Francis Xavier School, conducted by the Sisters of Charity, in connection with the parochial schools of the Diocese of Harrisburg, has been awarded the gold medal offered by the Palmer School of Business of New York City. This medal is awarded to the school having the largest number of scholarships and excelling in penmanship in the Palmer system.

For a number of years the local parochial school has been noted for the specialty of the course in penmanship and many of the pupils have received medals for their work in that branch. This year the work in this line was continued with continued success and the award from the Palmer School is a source of great gratification to those interested in the work of the Catholic schools in Gettysburg. The score of the pupils also receive special diplomas for penmanship in addition to the medal, the latter being made of work than that which won the gold medal.

The commencement exercises of the Catholic High School will be held this year on Friday evening, June 5th, when six graduates will receive their diplomas. The exercises will be held in the Majestic theatre and the commencement exercises will be open to the public. Tyrolien Quartet in which many of the pupils will take part. Caught a Tartar

By SAMUEL E. BRANT

John Hugus and Elmer Burch, two boys who live in the south ward, started to run away one day last week. They had planned it for some time and had decided to go to the city of Baltimore. They were to meet at a certain place and then go to the station together. They were to meet at 10 o'clock. Hugus was on hand at the appointed time, but Burch was not there. Hugus waited for a while and then started on his journey alone. He had gone but a short distance when he met Burch coming back. Burch had changed his mind and decided not to run away. Hugus tried to persuade him to go with him, but Burch refused to go. Hugus
